

Abstract

A method of modulating hair growth and/or hair thickness. The method includes modulating VEGF activity, e.g., modulating VEGF gene expression and/or modulating VEGF protein production and/or activity, to modulate hair growth and/or thickness. The methods can be used to either promote or inhibit hair growth or hair thickness in a subject.